DETAILED ACTION*Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c ) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103 as being unpatentable over WO98/10111 (English equivalent USP 6136101 to Sugawara et al. Both are listed in PTO-1449).

Sugawara in col. 13, EXAMPLE II, and Table 4 discloses the features including the claimed steps of heating Fe-based alloy within the claimed heating rate. The heating rate is for temperature between eutectoid temperature and eutectic temperature. Because there is no starting temperature recited in instant claims; thus, instant heating temperature range reads on A1 or eutectoid temperature as disclosed by Sugawara. As stated in In re Peterson, 315 F.3d 1325, 1329-30, 65 USPQ2d 1379, 1382 (Fed. Cir. 2003), that “A prima facie case of obviousness typically exists when the ranges of a claimed composition overlap the ranges disclosed in the prior art”. In instant case, material, temperature, and heating rate are overlapped. Accordingly, it would have been prima facie obvious for an ordinary skill artisan motivated by a reasonable expectation of success to use the known heating rate for improve material properties in order to obtain all of the known benefits. In re Aller, et al., 105 USPQ 233.

With respect to the instant claimed temperature gradient that it is no more than reciting uniform heating which is contemplated within ambit of ordinary skill artisan for uniform properties.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over reference as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of acknowledged prior art admission. Sugawara discloses the features substantially as claimed as set forth in the rejection above except for step of setting a sonic velocity. However, acknowledged prior art admission in paragraph bridging pages 13-14 of instant specification discloses it is conventional to use ultrasonic velocity to inspect cast metal in the same field of endeavor or the analogous metallurgical art. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art of the cited references at the time the invention was made to use ultrasonic velocity for inspect cast product because it is conventional and an ordinary skill artisan motivated by a reasonable expectation of success to use the known process in order to obtain all of the known benefits. In re Aller, et al., 105 USPQ 233.
